

Inês Carvalho Matos (MATOS, Inês) is an art historian and cultural heritage graduate presently candidate to a PhD in the University of Coimbra. From 2008 to 2010 she taught Art History and Tourism in a professional school in Lisbon. Since 2009 she has cooperated with the Japanese Embassy in Portugal. From 2011 to 2012 she created and implemented the Advanced Course on Social Sciences of Cultural Dynamics in the Institute for Citizenship and Education, in Aveiro district. Her interest in Japanese Studies came about through the research she conducted in Japan in 2012, as well as the books and exhibitions that followed. In 2015 she became part of JAPAN-NET - a network of people and institutions from Portugal aiming to develop Portugal/Japan ties and mutual understanding - as the founder and manager of an educational project called "Um longo Verão no Japão".